ABSTRACT:

Self-Respect Movement and Communist Movement are two unique occurrences that took place in Tamilnadu in the course of the freedom movement. The former is a social movement that aimed at eradicating the social inequality that prevailed in Tamilnadu between the three social components namely Brahmins, Non-Brahmins and Untouchable.

Abstract Report: The Title Accurately Said The Study was About.

INTRODUCTION:

The term 'Self-Respect' is derived from the Sanskrit word 'Suyamariathai'. It is a combination of two words 'Suya' which means 'Self' and 'Mariyathai' which means 'Respect'. Its main object in the early years was to secure communal representation in all spheres of public life. But subsequently the Self-Respect Movement confined its activities to social reform in which it aimed to give Non-Brahmins a sense of pride.

CONCLUSION:

The Communist Movement in Tamilnadu was linked with Self-Respect League organised by E.V.Ramasamy Naicker a social reformer. The concept of social and economic equality adhered by E.V.R. influenced the Tamilnadu Communist like Singaravelu Chettiar. The co-ordination between these two movements led to the spread of leftist ideals among the working masses.

Conclusion Report: The Text is Rounded off with a Conclusion that Discusses the Implication of The Findings & Ideas Discussed & Their Impact on Future Research Direction.
